IMMENSE DISPLAY

CLOAKS, —AT— MEISEL'S

The illustrated catalogue and retail price list, showing the styles for Fall and Winter Cloaks, which we sent out last year, gave such universal satisfaction that we have decided to issue an edition for 1888-9, and it will be sent to all who request it.

Those living at a distance from the depots of fashion will be able from its pages to get a clear idea as to what will be worn the present season for outside garments, and also of their value. Where necessary we revise and improve the shape and fit of all garments sold by us.

Plush Sacques and Jackets will be likely to retain their place in public esteem, and many handsome novelties are shown in high grade Wraps of rich Seal Hensel.

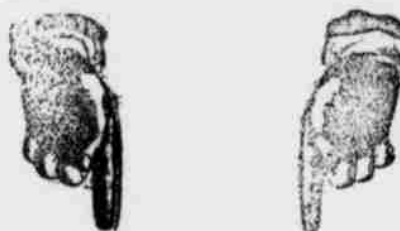

We will send goods on approval if, in case of return, the charges are prepaid. Customers will receive the benefit of any changes made in our prices, and all orders will be promptly attended to.

Take the elevator to the second floor, where you can examine our very large stock and buy them at prices which cannot be duplicated in eastern Michigan.

The Bryce block is supplied with all modern conveniences. You are kindly invited to look through the various departments.

One price, marked in plain figures. Orders by mail filled promptly and with care. Parcels checked for regular trains and steamers.

Men Who Harm a Town.

An exchange thus tersely tells who are the men to choke a town to death if they could:

- 1st—Those who oppose improvements.
- 2nd—Those who run it down to strangers.
- 3rd—Those who don't advertise.
- 4th—Those who mistrust its public men.
- 5th—Those who show no hospitality to strangers.
- 6th—Those who hate to see others make money.
- 7th—Those who oppose every movement that does not originate with themselves.
- 8th—Those who put on long faces when strangers speak of locating.
- 9th—Those who oppose every public enterprise that does not appear of personal benefit to themselves.

A Bargain for Farmers.

We take pleasure in informing our readers that the OHIO FARMER, which has a national reputation as the leading agricultural journal of the country, is offered for the coming year at only ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR. Its very large circulation, now numbering over sixty-five thousand subscribers in every state of the Union, and its liberal advertising patronage, enables its publishers to give to the farmers of this country one of the very best, most enterprising, reliable and instructive agricultural, live stock and family journals of America at the very low price of only one dollar per year. The Ohio Farmer is published at Cleveland, Ohio, is national in everything except in name, is a 16-page—64-column—weekly of fifty-two issues a year, and is acknowledged authority on all agricultural subjects. It is conducted by an able and experienced editorial management that spares no expense or labor to add everything possible to its value. Specimen copy and premium list will be sent free to all applicants by addressing the OHIO FARMER, Cleveland, Ohio.

ADDITIONAL EXPOSITIONS.

What is it makes George Edmonds so cool and placid, and how does he do such deep thinking? It is because he never allows himself to be harassed with colds. He takes Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, he does.

This is the time of year to pay up. Everyone who has the means should settle his small debts. If you pay your butcher what you owe him, your butcher can pay the baker, and the baker the tailor, and the tailor his wife's millinery bill. Thus one good deed would roll along and gather goodness as it proceeded, including general liquidation. It is a bad beginning of the new year to enter upon it with the drawback of a swarm of little debts, which, like mosquitoes, takes all the comfort out of living.

The EXPOSITOR will be $1.00 per year, STRICTLY IN ADVANCE, after Jan. 1st, 1889, or $1.50 at the end of the year. We desire to get this permanently fixed on the minds of our subscribers before Jan. 1, in order that there may be no misunderstanding. Our present subscription price is too little when we are compelled to wait one, two and three years for it, therefore we make this change and offer an inducement for subscribers to pay in advance. Now let us hear the dollars tinkle in the till.

Those of our readers who never stop for a moment to think why the newspaper proprietor, and especially the country proprietor, is expected to use his capital and brains without remuneration, to advance every private and charitable interest in the neighborhood, while no such tax is demanded of any other business or profession, is a mystery that will never be solved this side of the grave. It is often remarked that a little notice don't cost much. Yet we aim to get our living by receiving pay for these "little notices." An opinion from a lawyer don't cost that profession usually much beyond an effort, and yet the thousand and one people who are always wanting something for nothing in their local paper would scorn to ask a lawyer's service free, even for the benefit of a charitable purpose, and this in the face of the fact that the average country newspaper does not pay its running expenses apart from a job office in connection. If an accurate account was kept of all that is demanded of an editor, free of cost, in one year, and the statement published, it would show in many instances that many a poor fellow, struggling with poverty, had given more in charity, and some that could hardly be classed under that head, than a half dozen of the richest men in our midst. Those of us who are rich do not mind such a little matter; but those editors who do business for the fun of digging like a woodchuck to keep abreast of their expenses are entitled to our sympathy.
